

Did you know that you can build a home by swinging a golf club?!

Who knew you could build a home for a family in need by having fun, swinging a golf club, getting to know new people and promoting your business? With our 13th annual golf tournament right around the corner, building a home for a hard-working family is just 18 holes of fun away.

When you sponsor the HoCo Habitat Golf Tournament, you support our partner families as they team up with our volunteers to build their own affordable, decent home. As a locally-funded, locally-operated affiliate of Habitat for Humanity International, we rely on local sponsors and donors like you to help us buy the materials to build affordable houses that our partner families can call their homes. In essence, you are HoCo Habitat!

But don't worry! You won't have to make the long lists of materials we need, do the nitty gritty work of comparing prices, and lug all of the building supplies from the store to the construction site. We've got you covered! Instead, sponsor our tournament and come out for some fun on the golf course Friday, April 24 knowing that you are transforming lives by building homes, communities, and hope with each hole you sponsor and play!
